

3M participated in the BBC's live science lesson. The lesson taught the children about habitats and how animals have to adapt to survive in the winter months..

Two science technicians from William Edwards visited 3M, in which they explored different magnetic material and were shown how to make a magnet.